E-Learning Master Program of Education and School Leadership

✧ ABOUT THE PROGRAM

The E-Learning Master Program of Education and School Leadership (EESL) is a full English-taught program at National Chung Cheng University (CCU) and provides those who work at the schools and the educational institutions around the nation and world with opportunities to build up professional skills through online learning, mainly contributed by the academic staff from the Graduate Institute of Education, the Department of Adult and Continuing Education, the Center for Teacher Education, and the other units of the College. Our faculty members are not merely experienced lecturers but also experts in research and educational practices, particularly on the trends and issues in the fields of Education and School Leadership.

The educational goal is to enhance students' scientific knowledge, ability, and sense about the educational policy and school leadership. Moreover, we are looking forward to expanding students' ability of comparative and international education, multicultural perceptivity, and cultivating comprehensive professional competency so as to facilitate students with lifelong learning potentiality. With a Master degree in Education, our graduates are expected to expand more professional knowledge and skills and can be contributing to the educational system.

This program offers students not only a holistic online educational experiences of Taiwan but also a designed distance learning platform. In addition, this program is structured into required and optional courses and offers students a total of two times, face-to-face opportunities within the two-year study period, including the orientation week in the first semester and thesis oral defense week in the fourth semester. The students must attend these two time face-to-face meetings. For the courses attendances, students would be required to follow the related regulation and only three times Leave Application would be allowed per semester. If a scholarship recipient absents for more than three times per class in a semester, his/her scholarships will be suspended in the next semester.
